Then and Now...

Brian is only 20 years old, yet he has already endured more than most of us will face in a lifetime.

Last year, Brian underwent brain surgery to remove half of the AVM (arteriovenous malformation) in his brain. By God's grace, the first surgery was successful — but the journey isn't over yet.

Today, Brian still suffers frequent seizures that leave him weak and exhausted. Without a second surgery, these seizures will worsen, and the AVM could rupture at any time. It remains life-threatening.

In December or January, Brian needs to return to South Africa for a second surgery to remove the remaining half of the AVM. This operation is vital for his recovery and future.

We are asking for your support — through prayer, encouragement, and donations — to help cover the medical and travel costs for this life-saving procedure.

Every contribution, big or small, makes a difference.
